

1. The trouble with the rat race is

[that <even if you win>, you're still a rat.]

2. She pointed to [what was left] of the building.

3. There are so many things (that we wish [we had done \triangle yesterday]), but so few (that we feel like doing \triangle today).

4. Non-returnable wrappings impose serious strains on local authorities,

(whose responsibility it is \triangle to collect and dispose of our garbage).

5. Culture has a large effect on [how people communicate],

which is [why it is important to understand

[how people of different cultures think and act.]]

(1)

① As much information as possible about the brain death and the organ transplants should be made public

< while protecting the boy's and his family's privacy >.

② Such information disclosure is necessary to examine

[whether the procedures leading to the transplants were proper]

and to ensure the integrity of the system

(under which young children become organ donors.)

(2)

① Knowing [how and why your body alters with age] will help you prepare for changes in cell, tissue, and organ function (that cause the body to slow down). ② This knowledge will also help you take steps to stop the development of conditions such as diabetes and eye disease

(that are more common with advancing age.)